REV. WILLIAM E. M'CORD Called to St. Paul's Church to Succee Rev. R. D. Hatch, Resigned.

Rev. R. D. Hatch, Resigned.

The announcement at Easter time that Rev. Richard D. Hatch, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, this city, would in all probability resign was received with regret, and it was hoped that he might possibly consent to remain, but owing to his health he has formally resigned. His resignation was to become effective the 15th inst. He has, however, consented to stay until the first Sunday in May.

A number of different rectors have been considered for the vacancy, and it is understood that one has been called, and that the matter remains with him for decision. Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown of Norwich was in town Thesday with Rev. William E. McCord of Bayside, Long Island, and together they looked over the ground.

Hev. Mr. McCord left on the 4.07 express for his home, and will consider the call which it is understood has been tendered him.

The resignation of Rev. Mr. Hatch was entirely voluntary and he will take a much needed rest for a few months at least. He has been here for a number of years, and during his rectorship the church has been built up considerably and its various activities greatly broadened. His untiring efforts to secure a new edifice have earned for him a warm place in the hearts of his parishioners.

Woolsey, principal of the New Britain trade school, who said: The real air trade school, who said: The real dif-ference between trade and technical schools is that students of the latter enter scientific schools. Trades schools are entirely different, their students will go out and earn a living sconer than even under old apprentice sys-tem. Eight states have established and given state aid to agricultural schools. Twelve states have made provisions for nanual training schools, but Connecti-cut only is the one state that has so made provisions for the establish-ent of the so-called trades schools. Woolsey next referred to the firms railroads maintaining schools. The ailroad company that at present has he best school is the New York Cenral. He went on to compare the various systems in vogue and methods of astruction.

RATTLING GOOD MINSTRELS Given in Town Hall Under Auspices of

Y. M. C. A. A sparkling minstrel show, including in the cast many of the cheeriest fun-makers in Danlelson, was given in the Town hall Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian association. It was a good entertainment all the way, and the majority of the numbers were more than cordially received by the well pleased audience. The costumes were far ahead of any that it would have been possible to contrive under different circumstances, they having been furnished by the coach, Charles Close, and the effects secured were pretty indeed. The cast was well drilled, sang sweetly and rattled off the jokes and comic sayings in a manner that never fulled to make a hit.

a manner that never failed to make a hit.

The programme follows: Spectacular first part, Les Beaux D'Esprit, opening with the grand carnival in the garden of the palace; entrance song, By the Light of the Moon. With Sidney Marland as a very capable interlocutor, the overture was successfully conducted. The songs were as follows: Comical Eyes, John Bailey; Cubanola Glide, Wiffred Puize; My Way to Heaven is Through Your Love, Sweetheart, Allan Dean; Lady Love, Raiph Miller; Emmelina, Master Tyler Andrews: Carry Marry Harry, Henry Myers; Highland Mary, John Day; The Star of Love is Burning. Albert Warren; Come After Breakfast and Bring 'Long Your Lunch and Leave 'Fore Supper Time, William Omsbee; Punkin Picken Time, James Day; If I Had the World to Give, Hal R. Eaton; Anvil Chorus from Il Trovatore, company.

The olio numbers were selected novelties and included the Floradora zextette, Marland and Ormsbee, styled deliminators of indigo atmosphere, and Day and Bailey, the pair of Jacks, in a lively skit.

The cast was made up as follows:

The most important borough business this year has been the changing of the terminal of the sewer system from under the Quinebaug bridge to filtration beds on borough farm below the borough line. This farm cost $6,000, and after deducting about $500 received from the sale by public auction of the personal property, the farm stands us $5,500. The annual interest on this amount is at 4 per cent. $220. The farm has been leased to Peter Chabot at $150 a year, which leaves a balance net cost to the borough of $70 a year. This represents the net annual cost to the borough of its filtration beds. The care of the beds will be a very small cost, indeed, since there is a big demand for the sewerage deposit for agricultural purposes. It is probable that the tenant of the farm will clean the beds without cost to the borough.

FUTURE OF FAIR To Be Decided at a Meeting of

Whether or not there will be another Putnam fair will be decided in about a week, it is believed. The directors are to hold a meeting in a few days and will probably reach some definite conclusion as to plans for the future. Since the Danielson Cotton company commenced the construction of a dam across the Quine-baug river above Cotton's bridge about two miles below the fair grounds, there has been much tall relative to the results of flowage and its effect on properties abutting the relative to the results of flowage and its effect on properties abutting the river. The fair grounds would probably be affected to some extent by the building of the dam and it is understood that there have been conferences relative to the matter between representatives of the mill company and mmbers of the Putnam Park and Fair association. Then, there are other reasons that add to such uncertainty as exists about holding a fair. At the present time, however, there is little doing toward the construction of the dam and it may not be finished this year. While the fair has not been a big money maker the past few years it has always been an attraction for many people to come to Putnam and has undoubtedly been of great advertising value to the city, so much so, in fact, that there are many here who would be pleased to see it continued.
